INTERNATIONAL TOLL-FREE SERVICE (ITFS)

International Toll-Free Service (ITFS) has all the advantages of dialing a U.S. 800 number.

What it is: ITFS provides your international participants with toll-free access into a U.S. conference.

How it works: Ask a Reservationist about International Toll-Free Service and you will be provided with access numbers for each country to forward to your international dialers. When participants dial the number, they will be greeted by a U.S. Operator and joined to the conference.

ITFS can be combined with a wide range of features available with Operator Assisted conferencing.

Benefits: Your participants won't get saddled with calling cards, hotel surcharges or expensive long-distance charges. They will still receive the same full-featured Operator Assisted audio service as your U.S. participants.

- Perfect for connecting international offices to U.S. conferences.
- Ideal for Americans traveling abroad.

INTERNATIONAL DIAL-OUT

Give your international participants the VIP treatment by bringing your U.S. conference to them.

What it is:

A U.S. Operator dials-out to your international participants and connects them to the conference.

How it works:

While making a reservation, provide us with the name and telephone number of each international participant. You designate the time and we make the call. It's easy!

Dial-Out is offered on Operator Assisted or Reservationless-Plus audio conferencing platforms. Select our branding option — an Operator will reference your company name when joining parties together.

Benefits:

Dial-Out guarantees high-quality line connections. It also helps get your meeting started on time. International participants won't pay long-distance charges, and there is no need for the leader to distribute telephone numbers.

- Convenient for anyone who doesn't want to keep track of calling card or telephone numbers.
- Ideal when you need to impress international clients or partners.

INTERNATIONAL TOLL DIAL-IN

A 'no frills' international solution. Everyone connects to your conference with the same permanent number each time you hold a conference.

What it is: International participants dial a standard U.S. telephone number (area code 706) to join the conference.

How it works: Request a International Dial-In before your first international conference. You will receive a standard U.S. telephone number for your international participants to dial. Participants are responsible for long-distance charges.

Toll Dial-In can be combined with other features on our Operator Assisted or Reservationless-Plus audio conferencing platforms.

Benefits: Your telephone number never changes — participants can use the same number from anywhere in the world. With only one number to remember, Toll Dial-In is great for participants who travel from country to country.

INTERNATIONAL LINKS

If your international business partners host their own conferences in addition to joining yours, International Links are ideal. They'll always deal with one call center whether the conference takes place in their part of the world or in the U.S.

What it is: Participants dial into a call center in their region of world at the designated date and time. An international Operator links participants to the U.S. conference.

How it works: At least 24 hours before the conference, contact your Sales Representative or a Reservationist. You will receive access numbers for your participants to dial.

Links connect to our Operator Assisted audio platform, which allows them to be used with a wide range of features. Q&A sessions, polling and other enhanced features are available anytime, anywhere.

Benefits: If your company has business units in Europe or Asia Pacific, Links are a great way to connect them to your U.S. conferences.
